ETHIOPIANS CLAIM SUCCESSES

ITALIANS DENY ADOWA'S FALL

BLACKS REPORTED IN UALUAL

INVADERS CLOSING ON CITY OF AKSUM

Addis Ababa, Oct. 11.

Reports from the Ethiopian army headquarters at Deridawa state that the warriors of Haile Selassie have regained control at Ualual and taken Wardair by storm. Both these towns are within a few miles of Gerlogubi, slightly north-east, and were occupied by Italians at the commencement of hostilities.

It is officially stated that Issa tribesmen report shooting down an Italian plane near Deidorra. The crew were killed.—Reuter.

TOO FANTASTIC

Rome, Oct. 11.

The Italian troops have virtually surrounded Aksum, the ancient religious capital of Ethiopia, where are the tombs of old-time kings.

They are taking the utmost care to capture the city without damaging the Coptic treasures and other priceless relics, and are seeking the friendship of the natives.

A spokesman said that reports that Italian-enlisted Askaris had joined the Ethiopians were ridiculous. He also characterised Reuter's report that the Ethiopians had recaptured Adowa—after a fierce hand-to-hand struggle as "too fantastic to warrant official comment."

Recapture of that city was virtually impossible, the spokesman explained, since the Italians had advanced considerably beyond it.—United Press.

SIFTING PROPAGANDA

London, Oct. 11.

By sifting the plethora of rumours and official communiques, most of which are valueless by reason of their obvious propagandist nature, it seems fairly certain that the Italian losses so far have been small.

It is also evident that the Italians are rapidly completing their co-ordinating movements and are preparing for the first real push in the campaign.

The Ethiopians so far have not massed their defences and appear content to maintain the existing guerilla warfare which, coupled with sniping tactics, has proved fairly successful in harassing the invaders. The Ethiopian forces, if these tactics are maintained, will wait in the mountains before they offer any real resistance to the Italians.

The United Press correspondent was the first journalist to enter Adowa and found the city comparatively undamaged. Rumours that Adowa had been recaptured by the Ethiopians have been denied by messages from this source.

The Italians, however, have succeeded in capturing Gorrabel.—United Press.

ETHIOPIAN DESERT

It is officially announced by the Italian authorities at Asmara, in Eritrea, that the powerful chieftain Haile Selassie Guza, ruler of the Makale region in Eritrea, has deserted to Italy with 12,000 men and 12,000 rifles and 100 machine-guns.

The Ethiopian leader, Ras Seyoum, has reappeared suddenly to the east of Adowa, it is admitted. He is reported to be leading a considerable force of irregulars and is menacing the Italian lines.—Reuter.

ROME'S SATISFACTION

Rome, Oct. 11.

News of the desertion of two Ethiopian chieftains has been received in Rome with considerable interest.—United Press.

LEAGUE'S DRASTIC PENALTIES

THREE-FOLD PLAN AGAINST ITALY

MAY SEVER RELATIONS

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1934. Received, October 11, 8.45 a.m.)

Geneva, Oct. 11.

The sub-Committee on Sanctions, known as the Committee of Sixteen, has prepared drastic three-fold penalties for the approval of the Co-ordinating Committee of the League, for application against Italy.

The plan of sanctions entails, first, a world-wide arms embargo against Italy, permitting Britain, France, Belgium, Czechoslovakia and Sweden to lift their arms embargoes against Ethiopia.

It suggests, secondly, a world-wide boycott of Italian exports.

It recommends, thirdly, world prohibition of loans or financial credits to Italy.

The arms embargo against Italy will probably become effective tomorrow, and simultaneously the ban on arms shipments to Ethiopia will probably be lifted. Some members may delay due to difficulties of one sort or another.

The arms embargo against Italy will be based on President Roosevelt's list of war materials, on the ground that this is the most practicable.

DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS

It is reliably reported that Mr. Anthony Eden, the British spokesman at Geneva, told the League delegates that if another power proposes that League members withdraw the heads of their diplomatic missions from Rome, Britain would support the proposal.

The Co-ordinating Committee, or the Committee of Fifty, later approved the arms embargo section of the sub-committee's recommendations, and is expected to decide Monday upon the suggested boycott.—United Press.

M. Pierre Laval, French Premier and Foreign Minister, is here seen addressing the League of Nations Assembly. In his speech, he made it clear that France aligned herself with Britain in support of the League Covenant.

SEAPORT STRIKES SPREAD

AMERICA FEARS TIE-UP

LABOUR'S DEMAND

Houston (Texas), Oct. 11.
The strike of longshoremen in ports of Alabama and Florida, which has lasted for seven days, is spreading further along the east coast.

Three thousand longshoremen, mainly from ports of Texas, joined the strike to-day, according to the International Longshoremen's Association.

Meanwhile, New York officials of the Association declare that within ten days New York shipping will be paralysed unless a satisfactory settlement is reached.

The strike at present covers all the Gulf ports in Texas. It originated in New Orleans on the question of wages and recognition of the Dockers' Unions.—Reuter.

COMPLETE TIE-UP?

San Francisco, Oct. 11.
Mr. Joseph Ryan, the President of the International Longshoremen's Association, said Union men in Atlantic and Pacific ports will completely tie up shipping loaded at Gulf ports by non-unionists, adding "if owners continue to blacklist our men, we will tie up cargo on every ship."

Mr. Ryan added that the Steamship Association must permit the workers to decide whether they want the I.L.A. to represent them.

Meanwhile, the Labour Relations Board is considering a demand by employers to register a sufficient number of non-union men to provide gangs to work idle shipping. The Unionists are bitterly opposed to this proposal.—United Press.

THRONE IS WAITING

RESTORATION IN GREECE

London, Oct. 11.
Ex-King George of Greece has been officially informed that the Throne has been restored to him. The King is expected to return to Greece in November, after the plebiscite.

A message from Athens says the King's Government has issued a proclamation to the people expressing its desire that King George should be the father and protector of all Greeks, and the immortal arbiter between the various political parties.—Reuter.

GERMANY APPLAUDS AMERICA

NEUTRALITY STAND APPROVED

WON'T EXPLOIT CRISIS

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1934. Received, October 11, 8 a.m.)

Berlin, Oct. 11.

Germany stands for neutrality, according to an official diplomatic correspondent, and hails President Roosevelt's declaration as a new conception of neutrality.

The German attitude is to carry on normal relations with Italy, but only to export to her to the same degree as hitherto, says this authority.

The first supreme aim of every policy in critical times must be to safeguard peace. No nation should exploit those dangerous periods of history to her own advantage, the correspondent holds.

WAR RISKS

Meanwhile, the North German Lloyd and Hamburg America lines have announced shipments to the Far East will be made subject to war risks conditions.

Thus all shipping companies have now introduced the increased war risk premium on shipments passing through the Mediterranean and the Suez Canal.—Reuter Special.

Clause 6 makes certain changes in the principal Ordinance as the result of suggestions contained in the War Office letter of the 29th September 1933 enclosed with the Secretary of State's despatch of the 9th November 1933.

Section 7 makes a reduction in the allowances which will be made to officers, warrant officers and non-commissioned officers attending courses of instruction in the United Kingdom.

Section 8 makes a reduction in the allowances which will be made to officers, warrant officers and non-commissioned officers attending courses of instruction in the United Kingdom.

Section 9 makes a reduction in the allowances which will be made to officers, warrant officers and non-commissioned officers attending courses of instruction in the United Kingdom.

Section 10 makes a reduction in the allowances which will be made to officers, warrant officers and non-commissioned officers attending courses of instruction in the United Kingdom.

Section 11 makes a reduction in the allowances which will be made to officers, warrant officers and non-commissioned officers attending courses of instruction in the United Kingdom.

COLONY'S VOLUNTEER AIR ARM

ORDINANCE NOW AMENDED

INSTRUCTION FLYING

The Gazette contains the draft of an Ordinance to amend the Volunteer Ordinance, the principal object of which is to substitute an Air Arm for the Flying Section of the Hongkong Volunteer Defence Corps and to enact provision in the Volunteer Ordinance, 1933, and the regulations thereunder appropriate to this unit. The cost of training members of this unit will be considerable. It is considered therefore that they should engage to serve for periods of four years at a time, and not merely for three years as in the case in the other Corps units.

If they cease, without permission, to serve in the unit during any such period they will be required to refund the cost to the Government of their training in that period up to a maximum of $500. Similarly they will be required to make a refund in respect of any year in which they do not complete the requirements of efficiency, which will be at least six flying hours per quarter.

The new section 26A, providing for medical attendance in a Government Hospital for wounds, injuries or illness incurred whilst on duty on terms similar to those granted to Government Officers, is applicable to all members of the Corps and not merely to members of the Air Arm.

Clause 6 makes certain changes in the principal Ordinance as the result of suggestions contained in the War Office letter of the 29th September 1933 enclosed with the Secretary of State's despatch of the 9th November 1933.

Section 7 makes a reduction in the allowances which will be made to officers, warrant officers and non-commissioned officers attending courses of instruction in the United Kingdom.

Section 8 makes a reduction in the allowances which will be made to officers, warrant officers and non-commissioned officers attending courses of instruction in the United Kingdom.

Section 9 makes a reduction in the allowances which will be made to officers, warrant officers and non-commissioned officers attending courses of instruction in the United Kingdom.

Section 10 makes a reduction in the allowances which will be made to officers, warrant officers and non-commissioned officers attending courses of instruction in the United Kingdom.

Section 11 makes a reduction in the allowances which will be made to officers, warrant officers and non-commissioned officers attending courses of instruction in the United Kingdom.

LEAGUE RUSHES SANCTIONS

LIFTING EMBARGO ON ARMAMENTS

ETHIOPIA TO BENEFIT; ITALY UNCONCERNED

Geneva, Oct. 11.

So far there has been no dallying, declared Mr. Anthony Eden, British Minister for League Affairs, broadcasting to British listeners on the work of the League of Nations to-night.

Already fifty nations have given practical expression to their desire to bring the Italo-Ethiopian war to an end, he went on.

"We cannot afford to delay when men are being killed and homes shattered. Nowhere would there be more rejoicing than in Britain if Italy were to turn to ways of peace."

"But we have undertaken solemn obligations, and therefore, we shall not shirk. A prompt beginning has been made, and as far as the British Government is concerned, as we have begun, so we shall persevere," he asserted.—Reuter.

ROME PREPARED

Rome, Oct. 11.

"We have been a long time preparing to meet the effects of sanctions and are therefore not unduly alarmed," Reuter was informed by authoritative quarters to-day.

Authoritative quarters added that armaments manufacturers would have to sell on credit to Ethiopia, as Italy does not believe there is much money at the disposal of the Emperor Selassie.—Reuter.

LIFTING EMBARGO

Geneva, Oct. 11.

The Co-operating Sub-Committee of the League of Nations has unanimously decided to lift the arms embargo against Ethiopia, but to apply the embargo against Italy.

Meanwhile, the Co-ordinating Committee has established a sub-committee composed of British, French, Greek, Dutch, South African, Rumanian and Polish delegates, to deal with the financial questions relating to sanctions, and to tighten up any question of loans to Italy.

Another sub-committee, consisting of Britain, France, Russia and Spain, will examine the question of armaments and key munitions products.

On the suggestion of Mr. Anthony Eden it was unanimously agreed that the arms embargo against Italy should include goods under contracts already operative.—Reuter.

SCHEME ADOPTED

Geneva, Oct. 11.

The full Sanctions Co-ordinating Committee adopted the proposals of the sub-Committee to impose an arms embargo against Italy and raise the embargo against Ethiopia. Hungary abstained from voting.

When the full Committee meets tomorrow the financial sub-committee will recommend banning all financial accommodation to Italy.—Reuter.

AMERICAN STAND

Mr. Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, announces that the United States Neutrality Act prevents that country following the League and lifting the ban on arms exports to Ethiopia.—Reuter.

LOOKS FOR BIG PROFIT IN SILVER

SENATOR PITTMAN TELLS WHY

TREASURY'S POLICY

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1934. Received, October 11, 9 a.m.)

Salt Lake City, Oct. 11.

Senator Key Pittman declared to-day that to-morrow's hearing of the Special Senate Committee investigating American silver purchases and the Treasury's operations, would release its report in January.

"The programme is working as I expected," said Senator Pittman. He said that President Roosevelt intended faithfully to fulfil to the fullest extent the Silver Purchase Act; that is, he would see that silver was bought until America possessed a bulk of white metal equal to twenty-five per cent. of the value of the nation's gold backing or until the price of silver reached $1.29 per ounce.

Answering some of the Silver Senators' objections to the price advancing slowly, Senator Pittman pointed out that a cheaper price meant greater profit to the Treasury. Thus far the Treasury had profit of $400,000,000.

Moreover, many economists believed that a rapid increase in silver would affect the contracts of countries such as Mexico, China, Spain and India, and might induce them to demote, substituting a managed currency, whereupon silver would lose its chief value.—United Press.

EXPERT OPINION

Washington, Oct. 11.

It is announced that Mr. Herbert Bratter, the Administration's leading silver expert, who in 1934 visited the Far East on behalf of the Treasury, has resigned his position in the Commerce Department in order to join a Boston investment firm.

Political circles attach significance to his smashing attack upon the United States silver policy in an article appearing in the Wall Street Journal.—Reuter.

MAN RAISED FROM THE DEAD

BY SCIENTIST'S ARTIFICIAL HEART

WARSAW, Oct. 1.

PROFESSOR SMIRNOFF, OF MOSCOW, HAS RAISED A MAN FROM THE DEAD.

This is the claim made by the Moscow wireless to-day for the man whose "artificial heart" has rendered possible operations formerly undreamed of.

Yesterday a man was brought to Professor Smirnov's hospital in Moscow. A gaping wound in his side had drained him of a large quantity of blood.

Transfusions

When he reached the hospital his heart had stopped, and he presented every sign of death.

Professor Smirnov connected up the "artificial heart" with the man's blood circulation. He replaced the blood lost by a number of transfusions from other human beings. The wound was bandaged and the "artificial heart" set in action. In a few moments the patient began to show signs of returning life. Finally the real heart began to beat again.

The man was saved, and to-day is already on the road to recovery.

This follows on a demonstration of the same operation on a dog which Professor Smirnov made to international specialists at a medical congress in Leningrad last week.

Three medical students from Moscow University immediately volunteered to let Professor Smirnov experiment on them to see if the apparatus could be applied to humans.

Professor Smirnov refused.

Student To Try

Now, faced by the success of yesterday's operation, he intends to accept the students' offer.

One of the students is especially interested in studying the sensations which he would experience during the time of his own apparent death.

Professor Smirnov claims that real death from loss of blood does not occur for at least thirty minutes after the heart has ceased to beat. He also claims that the same is true of criminals who have met their "death" in the electric chair.

Formidable Army Array

They Are Leading Legions To African War

GENERALS WHOSE MILITARY ABILITY WAS PROVED IN FORMER WARS

Rome, Oct. 1.

A FORMIDABLE array of generals, whose military ability has been proved under fire in former colonial wars and most of whom received their acid test in the Great War, are commanding Mussolini's legions in Africa.

Most of them know Abyssinia well. Here is a series of thumbnail sketches of the most important of Mussolini's war lords:

General Emilio de Bono is Commander-in-chief of all troops in East Africa. Short, white-bearded, steely eyed, Emilio de Bono is Mussolini's No. 1 man. At 69, he is stiff as a ramrod, vigorous, alert. He first met Mussolini when Mussolini was a soldier.

He became Mussolini's trusted adviser on military matters, was later in turn chief of police, commander of the militia and governor of Tripolitania, and as a result of a big shake-up in 1929 he became Minister of Colonies.

Veteran of the Libyan campaigns and the Great War, he is a firm believer in rigid discipline.

General Melchiorre Gamba:

At 61, Melchiorre Gamba is chief of staff of Italy's forces in Africa. He rose from second lieutenant in 1897, to chief of staff of Colonial Troops in Eritrea in 1911, when he became a lieutenant-colonel.

He commanded an artillery unit throughout the Great War, being decorated for bravery under fire in June 1916, after refusing to leave his command though wounded by shrapnel.

Reporting daily at the field hospital to have his wound dressed, he carried on his work, recovered quickly, and took part in the Piave and Isonzo drives of 1917.

General Alessandro Bixio:

A disciplinarian of the old colonial school, 58 years old, he is commandant of the native forces of Eritrea and Somaliland.

Quick-tempered, but just and firm, he has the reputation of

GENERAL TERUZZI
Another key-man of Mussolini's war machinery.

ing, and beating down opposition chieftains.

He sheathed his sword temporarily in 1929 after his Cyrenaican campaign, and built a modest home and cultivated a small plot of land as a symbol to Italians to show them that after conquest must come industry and toil.

General Attilio Teruzzi:

Another key-man of Mussolini's war machinery is General Teruzzi, commander of the Fascist Militia. Born in Milan 62 years ago, he is another of the veterans of the Libyan campaign.

He was decorated in the Great War, in which he served as a captain of infantry.

Back to Libya he went soon after the peace, returning to Italy in 1919 to join the Fascist movement, resigning from the Army.

Up he shot with Mussolini, de Bono, Dino Grandi, Italo Balbo. In 1921 he was made vice-secretary of the Fascist Party and in 1924 was under secretary of the interior, later becoming Governor of Cyrenaica.

He is considered by Mussolini an ideal combination of soldier and statesman.

GEORGE ARLISS REFUSED £10,000!

OVERTIME PAY FOR BRITISH FILM

London, Oct. 1.

George Arliss, who is reputed to earn £2,000 a week on the films, walked into the office of Mr. Michael Balcon, Gaumont-British production manager, in Wardour Street, London, and put a piece of paper on the desk.

"I don't think I'll take this," he said and walked out.

The piece of paper was a cheque for about £10,000.

Mr. Arliss is a strong believer in regular hours and the cheque was for "overtime" in his latest film "The Guy Ratt".

The film took longer to produce than was anticipated. This was partly because Gaumont-British were determined that the result would be worthy of Mr. Arliss's art.

When in Hollywood, Mr. Arliss was known as a "stickler" for regular working hours.

15-1/2 To 1 Against Britain Fighting

ODDS YOU CAN GET BY CABLE TO LONDON

Lloyd's in London still offer 15 1/2 to 1 against the risk of war involving Great Britain. Their premium against war breaking out in Europe within three months is 7 1/2 per cent. Other Lloyd's "betting" against war is now:—

Italy and any major Power 15 1/2 to 1.
France, and any major Power 20 to 1.
United States and any major Power 100 to 1.

Footnotes

Lloyd's agent in Hongkong will give these odds on London acceptance of insurance by cablegram. Under same provision Lloyd's offer insurance in Hongkong on practically everything. Hongkong people can, for instance, insure against twine!

Then there is the "Jupiter Plus" policy, which would recompense you should you have more than a certain amount of rainfall on a certain day, or between certain hours. Handy form of insurance, this, for committees in charge of functions.

You can insure against the death of a famous public figure who may be critically ill, provided you can show that his death would adversely affect your business and mean financial loss.

Some little time ago it was possible to insure in London, at a very heavy premium, against the removal of certain dictators from power, since his downfall would undoubtedly have badly hit certain trades.

So long as you can show that you are an interested party, it is possible to insure against practically any risk.

Sir Austen Tells of Quarrel With L.G.

ANGRY REFUSAL OF CHANCELLORSHIP

"YOU have offered me the Chancellorship of the Exchequer very much as you would throw a dog a bone!"

These were the angry words with which Sir Austen Chamberlain refused Mr. Lloyd George's offer of office early in 1919.

The refusal is related in "Down the Years," by Sir Austen, published by Cassell.

It came in the midst of a stormy interview with the then Premier, in which "for the first and last time in our lives, we lost our tempers with each other."

The anecdote is one of many fascinating glimpses of secret history, and what happens behind the bulge-covered doors of Ministers' rooms, which crowd the pages of the book.

Boxers Hissed

He tells a story of a fight on the floor of the House of Commons, stopped eventually by the "dread rebuke" of hissing from the public gallery.

Lord Darling, then an M.P., explained to Sir Austen later that two of his constituents, prize-fighters, were in the gallery, and were so "disgusted" at the quality of the fighting that they provided the hissing!

About Anglo-American friendship Sir Austen has this to say:— "No Englishman, in common parlance, would speak of an American as a foreigner. It comes to us naturally to think of Americans as kinsmen."

"When all due allowance is made for differences that do exist, we believe that we are nearer to Americans than to any other nation outside the British Commonwealth, and that in fundamentals we stand for the same things."

"We desire not only to live at peace with the United States, but to cultivate the most cordial relations with them, and this desire has increasingly affected the course of British policy in recent years."

New Rules For Russia's Children

BOYS: RED TIES
GIRLS: BLUE
DRESSES

Moscow, Sept. 30.
STANDARDISED education for Russia's 25,000,000 school-children is laid down by a decree issued by the Council of Commissars.

Children will be graded according to behaviour, and, when they leave school, will be given diplomas in every subject with the marks "very bad, bad, adequate, good, or very good."

A system of fines is established for parents who fail to send their children to school punctually.

The uniform for boys is to be a short jacket and red "pioneer" tie and shorts, with a beret in summer and a fur cap in winter.

Girls will wear a blue dress, black pinafore, a short blue coat, and blue beret.

Schools will open on September 1 and close June 10 or 20. There will be two weeks' holiday in the winter and six days in spring.

Classes will last forty-five minutes, with a ten minute interval and at least one thirty-minute recess during the day. There will be a minimum of four and maximum of six classes a day.

No specific rules of behaviour are given, but directors must enforce discipline and may apply for dismissal or transfer of unruly scholars.

HE IS RICH-- BECAUSE HE WAS BORED

MR. F. G. ELDER, a visitor to London from the United States, became rich because he was bored.

He earns £10,000 a year from a business he entered just to kill time.

He became the third largest canner of grape fruit in the world because he was tired of idleness.

"Grape fruit," said Mr. Elder "gave me a new zest for life. I should have died years ago but for grape fruit."

Something To Do
"I am now fifty-seven, and ten years ago I decided I had made enough out of the advertising business to retire. I moved my home to Florida and took up golf, fishing and motoring."

"All went well for a year, and then my wife noticed I was not happy. I discovered that a life of ease is not such a grand thing after all, leastways not when you are fit and energetic. You just have to keep on working at some thing."

"Florida is where the best grape fruit is grown. I opened a small cannery just to give me something to do. That business simply would not keep small and handy. It kept growing, largely because of the increasing popularity of the fruit in England."

"And now my plummy business employs 600 people, and is making me richer than I ever was before. We pack 800,000 cases of fruit a year, and England buys 150,000 cases of them."

Commencing Monday...

ROOF REPAIRS?

RITO pays for itself over and over again. In half the usual time, and at a quarter the cost your man can make a permanent all-weatherproof job of those slates, tiles, gutters, downspouts, skylights, etc., which should be repaired now, while the weather is good.

RITO is a plastic roof repair compound which grips inseparably into all constructional materials and sets tough like rubber. To-day on thousands of roofs, including the Law Courts and the G.P.O., London, it is defying vibration, storms and atmospheric acids, thus proving its claim to be more permanent than the very roof it repairs.

CHANGING HANDS

LOCAL FIRM TRANSFERS SIX SHIPS IN ONE MONTH

Additional information regarding the two Australian ships now en route to the Far East have been supplied by the Far East Shipping Company of Hongkong.

The steamer Farlinga, and the oil tanker Vinas which she will tow to Japan, were both acquired by the Far East Shipping Co., the former on behalf of Chinese and the latter on behalf of Japanese buyers.

There has been considerable changing of ownership of vessels in Far Eastern waters during the past few weeks. The same firm announces that since September 20 they have disposed of four other ships to Chinese buyers. The ships are the Commandant Henri Riviere, the Shiratori Maru, the Kamuyati and the Vogavati.

The first of these vessels is well known in Hongkong as a regular visitor from Haiphong, and flies the French flag. She was originally the Ying Ning, then the Camira, then the Clan Campbell, before acquiring her present name. She was built in England in 1894.

Of the other ships two, the Vogavati and the Kamuyati, belonged to the Bombay S.N. Co., both of about 760 tons and were built in 1918-19. The Shiratori Maru was built at Osaka in 1921, and is of 929 tons.

CHINESE Y.M.C.A. CELEBRATES

THIRTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY
IN HONGKONG

The Chinese Y.M.C.A. of Hongkong celebrated its 35th anniversary on Thursday, October 10, at 7.30 p.m. at its headquarters in Bridges Street.

During the celebration pamphlets published for the 35th anniversary commemoration were distributed among the guests and members of the Association who attended the celebration.

The pamphlets reporting on the activities of the Association through historical sketches and statistical representations, and some account of the leading men in Hongkong who at various times have been connected with the Association and have been responsible for its advancement, was given.

During the ceremonies Mr. David W. K. Au, the President, announced the purpose of the celebration and gave a brief account of the history of the Association during its 35 years. He also pointed out that during the month of October other celebrations organized by the Junior and Social Activities Department of the Association for the same purpose will take place, and declared that a drive for the 35th Anniversary Commemoration Fund is now under way. His appeal to the public for support of the Association follows:

Work of the Y.M.C.A.

The Chinese Young Men's Christian Association of Hongkong was organized in 1901. From a humble beginning, the Association has enjoyed a steady and healthy growth in membership and activities. It began as a small institution carrying on activities in rented quarters. Now, the Association owns three large buildings, with its headquarters in the Island, a branch in Kowloon, and is equipped with modern facilities to carry on all activities conducive to the moral, mental and physical welfare of young men. From a few pioneers, the membership has grown to 2,500 strong. The progress of the Association, from either the spiritual or the material standpoint, is thus self-evident.

Besides caring for its own members the Association always has as its ideal the service of the community. Its social service programmes consist of such activities as, famine and flood relief, ambulance brigade service, popular

School's Sale Of Work

(To The Editor,
Hongkong Telegraph)

Sir,—May I, through the medium of your paper, thank all those whose help made the Sale of Work at Quarry Bay School, in aid of the Hongkong Society for the Protection of Children, a success?

The sum raised was nine hundred and ten dollars ($910) and this could not have been done without the generous support of parents, friends, past and present pupils and staff.

I should like particularly to thank Mr. and Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. Wallace, Mrs. Swan, Mrs. Young, Mrs. Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. Dunlop and Mr. Hill for their help in the organization.

Thanks are also due to the Dairy Farm, Ice and Cold Storage Co., Ltd., for the gift of ice cream; the British American Tobacco Company for cigarettes; and Messrs. A. S. Watson and Co. for mineral waters; and also to the Advertising and Publicity Bureau, and your good selves, for advertisement.

The generous givers and the good buyers made the Sale a great success, and I appreciate very much indeed the support that was given to the school.

G. M. COTTON.

The health bulletin of Eastern ports for the week ended October 5 shows the following cases of infectious diseases:—Plague: Colombo 5 cases, Calcutta 13 cases, Cochin 5 deaths, Madras 2 cases, Bangkok 8 cases, Small-pox: Basrah 1 case, Bombay 5 cases, Calcutta 3 cases, Madras 2 cases, Negapatnam 1 death, Tuticorin 2 cases, Vizagapatnam 1 case, Shanghai 1 case.

education, vocational guidance and health campaigns. These and some others form a regular feature of the Association's work in the Colony.

Since the Association is growing both in spirit and in activities, and its service to the community is of so important a nature, the demand for financial assistance from the community in support of this growing work is equally urgent. As one who is privileged to be identified with the Association, I am appealing for the generous support of the community towards the 35th Anniversary Commemoration Fund for the furtherance of the good work among the young men of Hongkong.

POOLED WORLD RESOURCES

If, as is hinted, there is to be a General Election in Britain next month, the prospects are that the Baldwin Administration will be given a fresh lease of life. This seems more assured than ever from the fact that the Labour Party is in full accord with the Government in the policy it is following in the present international crisis. In this matter, the whole of Britain, if we except a few isolationists, are united in full support of the League Covenant. It is of interest at the moment to draw attention to the attitude of the Labour Party on the Italo-Ethiopian dispute. This has been clearly stated in an official declaration, which condemns the provocative and defiant attitude of Italy and pledges Labour support for action by the League. But the declaration does not stop at that. It goes on to outline future policy for preventing a recurrence of such crises. The view is expressed that it is necessary to eradicate the evils and dangers arising from the present economic position, especially in regard to the control of raw materials in colonial possessions, and therefore asks that the Government should summon a world economic conference for the purpose of securing international control of such supplies, with the application of the principle of economic opportunity to all nations in the undeveloped regions of the earth. This question is at the moment receiving considerable attention, and there is much in the contention that if raw materials were internationally controlled and made available to all, according to world requirement, by purchase instead of conquest, ninety per cent. of the causes of war would be removed. In this connection, it should be borne in mind that the League system is based on the principle of pooled security; and the natural corollary to pooled security is the pooling of economic resources. Without this, no real system of international co-operation can be complete. This does not imply destruction of the British Empire, but it does envisage a wider co-operation between that Empire and the rest of the world. There seems no other road to world peace than a recognition of the underlying principle of the suggestion now put forward. The sooner this fact is realised and acted upon by the nations of the world, the

NOTES OF THE DAY

PRAISEWORTHY PROJECT

The offer of volunteers of the St. John Ambulance brigade to form a unit and proceed to Ethiopia, there to serve behind the lines of the black armies, tending the wounded, the shell-shocked and the gassed, speaks well for the spirit of that corps. It shows a praiseworthy pluck and real desire to serve humanity, all too rare in this day and age. No doubt many of the Corps men and women know something of the work of Red Cross units in war. Those who do, and who still volunteer to make this African journey, deserve the more credit. But those who wish to go for the adventure of the thing as well as with an altruistic motive, should heed a word of warning. They must remember that they will be working behind an army which does not possess the high degree of efficiency or organisation or defensive strength which the British and their allies possessed during the Great War; they will be behind an army of wild tribesmen who, unless we are much mistaken, will be fighting a running campaign, largely of guerilla tactics, in country wilder and more dangerous from a point of view of health, than anything in China. Their work, nerve-racking and exhausting, will have an element of danger not to be overlooked. They will probably be succouring an army in retreat. The trials they must face, the hazards they will encounter, and the unending sacrifice which must be theirs, are not for the weak or faint-hearted. Should they go, should the necessary funds be forthcoming and no hindrance put in their way, these volunteers will have the blessing of us all. But they will need the strength of martyrs.

WHO ARE ROME'S ALLIES?

Italy, playing a dangerous game in Europe, defying the League and the sanctions of League Powers, warning that a blockade will be considered an act of war and that she will respond with war-like reprisals, and finally, shipping the pick of her troops and a vast war machine into East Africa, seems to become more reckless with each passing hour. For while the solidity of the League grows and the opposition to her course looms larger, Rome accelerates her pace towards the inevitable clash. One must wonder from whom she can expect assistance in the event of an economic or military crisis in which Britain, France and other powerful nations may be involved. Can she believe that Austria and Hungary, smarting still from Trianon, will add greatly to her economic strength? Or that Spain, still politically unbalanced, can steady her own tottering gait and lend an arm to Rome? Can she see sympathy stirring the heart of Germany, or Yugo-Slavian armies marching across the Balkans to suppress her enemies, and keeping the door to the Hungarian granary open so that little Budapest can have its macaroni? Can she anticipate help from Japan? Incredible, we say. Yet there will be some who will find significance in the hastened preparations for opening a Japanese Legation at Addis Ababa, and the admission from Tokyo that the Japanese diplomats there may act for Rome in Ethiopia. There will be others who will point to the wedding of Don Juan of Spain and the Princess of the Sicilian Bourbons, in Rome, who thus unite the claims of the two great Bourbon branches with any hope of a restoration of their power in Spain. Is Italy playing for Japanese support by offering concessions in Ethiopia? Is she playing for the aid of Spanish Royalists, the friends of the Bourbon line, the Royalist supporters of the French Pretender, the loyal adherents of Prince Otto, claimant to the Hapsburg throne in Austria and the Crown that waits at Buda-Pest? Is this a rally of the long-hoping Royalists throughout Europe, a fling for Imperial Empire by Rome, the beginning of a fight for power on the part of those dispossessed by revolution following the Great War? Common sense will answer "No." But the times are ripe for even such wildly romantic conjecture, and, with other Great Minds, we think it best to "wait and see."

nearer we shall be to the abolition of war, since war usually springs from economic causes. Britain, in this matter, is in a unique position to give a lead to collective effort towards the achievement of the end desired by those who wish to see the world freed from the danger of future wars.

LION OF JUDAH

By Edward Beattie

HAILE Selassie I, Elect of God, King of Kings of Ethiopia, Conquering Lion of the Tribe of Judah. Without him Ethiopia would never have amounted to much.

With him, it is an Empire in name rather than in fact, a place of ramshackle civilisation mixed with deepest ignorance, a place with a nondescript army leavened with a few trained troops, a place always near civil war, ignorant of its possibilities and generally hostile to progress.

Without him, it would have been no one to fight for modern ideas, to watch his chance and introduce them while reactionism looked the other way. There would have been none of the steady patience and perseverance which began abolition of slavery, brought an orderly central government and a place of equality in the family of nations.

His Empire was a second rate sort of place. It had no roads to speak of, and most of them were either mud or rocks. It had almost no communications. His capital was a collection of ramshackle shops, mud huts, and ill-constructed government buildings.

But what paved roads his Empire has it owes to him. What development of resources it has begun is traceable to him. Its reputation abroad is his work and its stand against foreign aggression his stand.

HAILE Selassie fought to improve his country by patience and by willingness to take advice. Where his countrymen as a whole dislike "ferangi" he imported foreign advisors to put his government in a workable condition. He sent young men of his country to be educated abroad, paying out of his own pocket when reactionary blocked the use of government funds. And when the danger of war came, these young men, doctors, engineers, teachers, who had been destined to help him improve their country, returned to help him defend it.

The little brown man with his soft beard, his semitic nose, his sad eyes, his tiny hands and his quiet, detached manner, it the state religion. The high forced himself into seventeen hours work daily, first to improve his country and later to save it. He submits to dozens of interviews, hundreds of press photographs and countless invasions of privacy to place his country's case in the world press.

"Two promised to marry him next Christmas, if I can't do any better in the meantime."

WHEN Haile Selassie went to the League of Nations to appeal for fair play he did it with complete reliance. Some people say his reliance was too complete, that he should have acted earlier instead of watching Italian troops pour into East Africa.

In March, this year, when the announcement of universal conscription in Germany was rocking Europe, he was advised either to declare war on Italy or to decree mobilisation. Either, it was argued, would be enough to stop Italy's ambitions. He preferred to trust the League. Later he was again advised to act, and waited.

HAILE Selassie was born on July 11, 1891, of a line whose genealogy commences with Memelik I, son of Solomon, born of the Queen of Sheba, and which has continued without interruption to the present day.

His father was Ras Makonnen, Governor of Harrar, his mother Weizoro Achmeniet, a lady of noble birth. Ten children of Makonnen had died at an early age and the eleventh, the future Emperor, was so sickly that his father did not expect him to live.

Makonnen gave his son all advantages he could, including the then unusual opportunity of learning French from a tutor, especially imported for the purpose. At his father's death in 1906, the future Negus came to Addis Ababa with the protection of Menelik, who made him Governor of Selaile, successively to become Governor of Basso, Sidamo and Harrar.

In July, 1911, he married Weizoro Manen, granddaughter of the Negus, Mikael. Their first child, Princess Tenaghe, was born two years later. The good luck which had killed off his elder brother before his birth, stood him in good stead in 1914, when a boat in the danger of war came, these six companions. The future Emperor alone was saved.

Yessou, then Emperor, removed Tafari from his post to Governor of Harrar. But Yessou soft beard, his semitic nose, his himself was leaning to Mohammedanism, and desired to make his quiet, detached manner, it the state religion. The high forced himself into seventeen hours work daily, first to improve his country and later to save it. He submits to dozens of interviews, hundreds of press photographs and countless invasions of privacy to place his country's case in the world press.

biet, born in 1920, and Prince Makonnen, born in 1924.

The Empress, herself without heirs, designated Makonnen's son as her successor, and he became Ras Tafari, and Regent of the Empire. Yessou's father, resentful of the appointment, attempted rebellion and was crushed.

The Empress died in April, 1930, and Tafari became Haile Selassie I on November 2, 1930, at a brilliant ceremony attended by visitors from all parts of Europe. But his road was not clear.

The next year Ras Gugaha, Governor of Tigre, revolted. Yessou, who has been in prison since his deposition, joined the revolt. Using aeroplanes for the first time in Ethiopian warfare, Selassie defeated Gugaha, whose head was brought back to the capital and cast at the feet of the Emperor. Yessou was returned to prison, where he still lives.

BRITISH PRESS COMMENT

WARM COMMENDATION OF LEAGUE

London, Oct. 11. The measure of solidarity achieved among the powers represented at the League Assembly yesterday, is regarded by newspapers as a remarkable demonstration of opinion. The Times says that it must be plain to the whole world by this time that Italy has left those nations who honour their word no choice but to take action against her. The dissent of Austria and Hungary would only be serious if they, or others who might use them as a trading corridor, were willing indefinitely to take that risk.

The co-ordinating committee may well take some days to complete its task of fitting into a workable scheme what each country can do, but the fact that it starts work to-day reflects the determination of the Assembly that no time should be lost.

The Daily Telegraph says, "It is a world verdict so far as the League represents the world and the gap made by Austria and Hungary is serious, but not irreparable. Other countries besides Switzerland may be withholding their particular reservations till a positive scheme of sanctions is brought forward but at any rate they have refrained from weakening the common front. It is the production of a practical scheme which will provide a searching test of loyalty to the Covenant."

The Morning Post says, "Reverent against the peacebreaker is mingled at Geneva with anxiety about the measures to be taken against her." After drawing attention to the sentences in the speeches of M. Laval and Mr. Eden the newspaper assumes that two methods are to be pursued jointly for the restoration of peace, one by way of Article Sixteen and the other by way of conciliation, and it expresses the view that the latter is more humane and safer and more in accord with the spirit of peace.

The Manchester Guardian says that the function of the League is to secure justice for Abyssinia by putting such peaceful pressure on Italy as, combined with the pressure of the campaign itself, and her precarious position in Europe, will bring the war to an end.

The Daily Herald emphasises Mr. Eden's demands for immediate action to secure the settlement in accordance with the principles of the Covenant and adds that if the League is to emerge victorious it must act swiftly, decisively and irresistibly. The purpose of the Sanctions is neither to save the conscience of the League Governments nor to punish Italy for her crime. It is to end war. The Daily Mail urges politicians and publicists to refrain from any word or act that might increase the tension and says that consummate statesmanship is now urgently required to effect a friendly settlement. —British Wireless.

PROPERTY SALE

CHINESE LADY BUYS TWO LOTS AT KOWLOON

Two pieces of land in Kowloon were auctioned by order of the mortgagees at Messrs. Hughes and Hough yesterday afternoon.

The first lot comprised a piece of land registered in the Land Office as Kowloon Inland Lot No. 2310, together with the buildings thereon, known as No. 6, Duke Street. The property contains an area of 7,500 square feet, and is held for a term of 75 years commencing September 28, 1933. The annual Crown Rental is $52.

Bidding commenced at $10,000, and after one bid of $500 the lot was sold to Mrs. Tam Pak, of 717, Nathan Road, for $10,500.

The second lot is registered in the Land Office as Kowloon Inland Lot

NATIONAL DAY

IMPRESSIVE REVIEW OF CANTON TROOPS

Canton, Oct. 11. With over fifty aeroplanes dropping in formation overhead, General Chan Chai-tong, the "strong man of Canton," yesterday reviewed his land and air forces in one of the most impressive parades ever held here.

Practically all Canton's crack units, equipped with the most up-to-date weapons, including a large number of tanks and armoured cars, participated.

Meanwhile, the national holiday was being observed by civilians with an unprecedentedly elaborate programme, including a most magnificent and picturesque dragon procession, and other exhibitions, costing $250,000.

The whole city will be on fete for three days, the Government having declared a general holiday. All shops and Government offices are participating in the celebrations.

The population has been increased by at least 10,000 in the last few days, owing to the influx from Hongkong and Macao and every district of the province. All day every street was thronged thousands of people and traffic is blocked continually in many sections.

The object of these celebrations is on an unprecedentedly large scale to attract tourists and stimulate business and thus restore prosperity.

The idea is similar to the Silver Jubilee celebrations in Hongkong last May. —Reuter.

Thousands Carried

On October 9 and 10, the Kowloon-Canton Railway carried 27,662 passengers to and from Canton. Of these passengers 22,068 travelled from Kowloon to Canton.

This is easily a record for the Railway, the previous figures for two days being on May 4 and 5 this year, when Jubilee traffic up and down amounted to 16,705 passengers, 14,681 of whom travelled from Canton to Kowloon.

On Thursday the number of up passengers to Canton totalled 12,713, which exceeded the previous maximum figures in one direction obtained on May 5 this year by over 40 per cent.

AMERICAN LABOUR

CENSURE ON LEADERS AT ANNUAL CONVENTION

Atlantic City, Oct. 11. The American Federation of Labour members to-day notified their leaders that they will no longer tolerate their tight-reined control, steam-roller tactics and over-riding leadership.

The Convention's first test of strength came when members voted two to one that the Convention insist on further efforts to bring about a peace in the battling building trades.

The action is significant, due to the fact that this is the first time this year's leadership has been rebuffed on the Convention floor, and foreshadows closer struggles on controversial issues, including industrial versus craft unionism, and the formation of an independent labour party. —United Press.

No. 1834, and the premises thereon are known as No. 65, Ha Heung Road, Tseung Kwan. The property is held for a term of 75 years from April 5, 1904, and the annual Crown rental is $6. The area of the lot is 930 square feet.

This lot was put up at $500 and was sold, also to Mrs. Tam Pak, for $500.

Messrs. D'Almeida Remedios & Co., were solicitors for both the mortgagees.

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

WE JUDGE OURSELVES BY WHAT WE FEEL CAPABLE OF DOING, WHILE OTHERS JUDGE US BY WHAT WE HAVE ALREADY DONE. —Longfellow.

Patrons of the Alhambra Theatre to-day will see included in the programme a special film of the Double Tenth celebration, military review, processions, etc., taken in Canton on Thursday.

His Excellency the Officer Administering the Government has nominated the Hon. Mr. B. H. Kotewall as a member of the Court of the University of Hongkong for a period of three years, and has re-nominated Mr. Tang Shiu-kin to be a member of the Court for a further period of three years.

It is notified that His Excellency the Governor in Council has authorised as a place to be used as a Chinese Cemetery, to be known as "New Kowloon Cemetery No. 7" the piece of land containing about 200 acres, situated at Hammer Hill in New Kowloon and shown on the plan thereof which may be seen at the Office of the Public Works Department.

The name of Dr. Lim Poh-hye, of the Haw Par Hospital, Cheung Chau, has been added to the list of medical practitioners.

Two cases each of Diphtheria and Typhoid, and one case of Meningitis, were reported to the local health authorities during the 48 hours ended on Thursday.

A dinner dance will be held at Repulse Bay Hotel this evening, and a tea dance on Sunday. The last bus leaves Repulse Bay at 1 a.m. on Saturday, and there is a half hourly bus service on Sunday afternoon.

Madame Lottie Gordon is arranging an opening musicale in conjunction with the newly-formed younger set and plain and fancy dress dance, at the new "Link" Room, 14 Hart Avenue, Kowloon, on Saturday November 2, at 9 p.m. Each person will represent either a character from grand and light opera, a composer, a song, or piece of music, and a prize will be given under the auspices of the Australia Music Link, the Musical Culture, and Grand Opera Circle. Further particulars may be obtained, and invitation tickets reserved, from Madame Lottie Gordon, Organising Secretary, 14 Hart Avenue, Kowloon.

CHINESE LOANS

SHARP PROTEST BY BRITISH HOLDERS

London, Oct. 11. A joint committee of the bond holders of the Marconi and Vickers loans have circulated the holders regarding the recent efforts to obtain satisfaction, affirming that the negotiations with Dr. H. H. Kung, the Nanking Minister of Finance were interrupted by the Shanghai financial crisis but have not been terminated.

It has been requested by the Committee that a memorandum on China Loans be forwarded to Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, with a view to his discussing this matter. The Committee has repeatedly drawn the attention of the Foreign Office to the fact that it would be most unfair of the British Government to facilitate a fresh China Loan until all outstanding loans have been satisfactorily disposed of. —Reuter.

Rumours Discounted

Shanghai, Oct. 11. The Leith-Ross loan rumour is entirely discredited in well-informed quarters and excites the derision of financiers, who point out that Sir F. Leith-Ross went to China with an open mind and with no preconceived plan of any sort. It is most unlikely that he is authorized to make such a proposal.

Great Britain is still bound by the Consortium not to lend China independently of it. A loan is impossible except by public subscription, about which no bank has yet been consulted. Chinese interests told Reuter's correspondent that they attribute the report to a powerful group of Chinese gamblers, thus causing a most unfavourable impression in London. —Reuter.

REUTER BUILDING

WONDER HOUSE OF NEWS TO BE ERECTED

London, Oct. 11. The beginning of a new stage in co-operative interchange of world information will shortly be made with the erection of what is described as the world's most comprehensive and scientifically equipped "news clearing house," to be built in Fleet Street—the main thoroughfare of newspaper land.

"A wonder building" will accommodate Reuters and the Press Association, also numerous London staffs of British overseas agencies and various foreign agencies, allied to Reuter.

These will be kept in constant and instantaneous communication with Imperial and foreign news as it flows in an unbroken stream, day and night, to Reuters, and with British home news as it reaches the Press Association.

The building will contain the most modern telegraphic and other scientific equipment and will be a mass of sensory nerves, which will keep not only Reuters, but also the Empire and foreign representatives, accredited to Reuters, in momentary touch with the intelligence that concerns each territory thus reducing to a minimum the time required for sifting and diffusing intelligence to every part of the world.

The elevations of the new building are in Portland stone designed by Sir Edwin Lutyens. Consisting of nine floors, the building will rise with Lutyens' simplicity of tapering line, and Lutyens' designed beautifully shaped central entrance and hall. The large block of buildings fronting Fleet Street will be demolished to provide a suitable site and work will start shortly. —Reuter.

felt for at least another month, while pessimistic traders anticipate that all available supplies will almost certainly be absorbed at their source, only the barest minimum being likely to reach England. —Reuter.

GERMANY MAKES NO REPLY

INTERNATIONAL FOOTBALL

INVITATION FOR DECEMBER 4

(By Frank M. Carruthers)

London, Sept. 11. So far the Football Association have received no reply to the invitation sent to Germany to play a match in this country on December 4.

It is puzzling that not even an acknowledgment has been sent, but for some time the German authorities have expressed a wish to play in this country, and it is not doubted that the opportunity now offered will be accepted.

Meanwhile we are told that the prospective match is being keenly anticipated in Germany.

Where will it be played? Previous matches with European countries have all taken place in London. One reason for this has been that visiting teams have expressed a wish to play in London.

LONDON'S BIG GAME

But this season the game between England and Scotland as well as the Cup Final is to take place at Wembley, and I think the fixture with Germany might be taken to a provincial stronghold.

Financial considerations may enter into the choice of ground, not so much on the part of the Football Association as the German authorities. Other visiting countries have received about £3,000 each and the German F.A. will look for the same windfall.

The first official English team to go on to the Continent visited Germany. This was in 1899 and Mr. W. I. Bissett and Mr. Phil Bach were members of it.

Then, as now, the Germans were amateurs and their knowledge of the game was slight. Mr. Bassett tells an amusing story of his experience. "A German half-back," he told me the other day, "had evidently been ordered to stick to me, and wherever I moved he followed. It became a joke, and to test him to the limit, when we were taking a corner I ran behind the goal outside the field of play. Even then my 'shadow' went with me."

By the way, this match should rarely appear in the F.A.'s official records.

GERMAN STRENGTH

There is nothing to laugh at in German football to-day. Their game is wonderfully organised, the players are finely disciplined and trained, and from the early teaching of British coaches they have acquired a profound knowledge of positional play. But, like most European teams, they have not the British strength in finishing their attacks.

Golf, the national sport in England, is practised to a great extent by the fair sex. The picture above shows two competitors in the Semi-Finals of Girls' Golf Championship recently held at Buckinghamshire.

Caught Football Fever From Father

GIRL WHO "MANAGES" CORINTHIANS FOOTBALL ELEVEN

(By BRUCE HARRIS)

London, Sept. 14. "Sometimes it is a bothersome business, this football," Miss Margaret Smith of Islington Corinthians, confessed to me to-day.

"How would you like to pick a team and hear by telephone the day before the match that one of your best players was injured and another too busy to play?"

Miss Smith is more than a mere footballer. In her father's absence she is in a sort of acting-upd George Allison of her club.

Mr. Smith, the hon. secretary, is away in Yugoslavia, so she has selected an amateur team that she hopes will overcome the professional strength of Fulham at Tufnell Park on Thursday.

The Mayor and various councillors of Islington will watch the efforts of this collection of talent from the leading amateur clubs.

NOT A GIRL'S TEAM

In the stand Miss Smith recently deflected a colleague of mine by her enthusiasm. To-day she adjusted the volume-control in telling me indoors about the Corinthians.

"Understand," she said, "that though I sometimes choose the side, ours isn't a 'girls' team.' I'm proud of the boys. They have beaten during the last four years sides from Chelsea, the Spurs, and Arsenal—one eleven we defeated contained about £10,000 worth of footballers."

"And we went to Amsterdam and beat the famous Ajax F.C."

"It's a hot side, including more than one international, and I hope to turn out on Thursday."

"And to think that once I used to think football a bore because father sometimes would talk of nothing else! In those days of darkness I didn't even know what 'off-side' meant."

SHE TELLS HIM

"Now father and I go to the matches together; he will ask me what I think of so-and-so, and I tell him that I like his play, or that I don't, and why."

"Town tennis and cricket are all right—to play. But I don't want to watch them. As a spectacle, football for me every time."

"Father must have given me football fever, for now, since I've been helping him and become assistance secretary, I've become as keen on it as he is. Why not? Many women know as much about the game as men."

"At present our club is purely a mid-week one. Our ambition is to acquire a ground of our own, for I believe that quite a lot of our players would come over to us for Saturday play—we are such a happy lot."

CONVERTED

Seeking expert advice, I asked Miss Smith a technical question that has divided the world of football—did she believe in the defensive "policeman" centre-half.

She told me she pinned her faith to him.

And so, from now on, do I.

GIVE OLD 'UNS A CHANCE

TENNIS HANDICAP GRIEVANCE

OF VETERANS

(By ULYSS ROGERS)

Eastbourne, Sept. 18. The really veteran lawn tennis players of Britain have a grievance.

There are twenty-four veterans here, ranging in age from mere lads of between forty-five and fifty (you qualify as a veteran at forty-five) down to real veterans of seventy to seventy-five. Every one of them is after the All-England Veteran's Championship, of which Mr. J. G. Ritchie, at sixty-four, is the present holder. You do not pass out of the veteran class till you are eighty-five, when you will be persuaded to retire.

AT FORTY-FIVE

At forty-five a veteran has to owe fifteen in two and thirty in four out of every six games he plays. He therefore has to win five or six points instead of four to win a game.

At fifty, he is scratch. After fifty he receives one sixth for every year of his age; that is, if he is fifty-one, he has fifteen in every sixth game; if he is fifty-three, he receives fifteen in every other game. If he is fifty-nine, he gets fifteen in every odd game and thirty in every even game.

At sixty-five—the top mark—he receives thirty and forty in alternate games. After that he gets nothing more if he lives to be as old as Methuselah.

"LADS RISING 70"

To-day, for example, there was that young fellow of sixty-seven, G. Griville, playing a fully grown-up of seventy-three, E. W. Shackie, at exactly the same handicap. Griville won at 6-1, 6-0, and

FOOTBALL WILL HAVE DUAL CONTROL

NO VETO BY THE ASSOCIATION

(By Frank M. Carruthers)

London, Sept. 10. Any doubts which have existed as to an alteration being made in the refereeing system are quickly being dispelled.

The position has changed greatly since the question was considered by the League clubs last June. Not only do they take a different view, but I know of no responsible member of the Football Association who is prepared to veto a trial of two referees. All that they ask is it should be done constitutionally.

This, I understand, is now to be the procedure. The League clubs will be called together to reconsider the proposal so that it may be brought before both the Football Association and the International Board in ample time for the change to be legally introduced.

There will be no question on the part of the Football Association. That is certain. Neither will the International Board withhold permission for the scheme to be tried if the Football League will take the responsibility for it. Both bodies are bound to realise that it is in the interests of the game that this should be done.

THE LEAGUES VIEW

I am afraid there is still a good deal of confusion as to what is the intention of the League authorities. It has never been their idea that a second referee should be rushed into the game at once and made a permanent.

In effect they have said, "We are convinced that the conditions have so greatly changed that matches have passed beyond the control of one official, and we want to see if an improvement can be brought about by two referees dividing their responsibilities. Let us try the plan."

They have not put forward any proposal that the present rule should be altered immediately, and they have not suggested that all matches should have two referees, even though they may believe that this will come about. So the time has not yet arrived when the amateurs have any right to proclaim their opposition to the proposal. They will be able to look on and watch how the scheme works. I do not think they could wish for anything better than to be left in this privileged position.

One point is having considerable influence on the League clubs. When I first saw two referees acting at Chester I said, "The system will help to put down illegal obstruction or any other worse feature which may enter into the play."

I pointed out after the second trial at West Bromwich that players who had taken part in it took the same view.

Club officials, seeing that the referees will be kept in closer touch with the men than is possible at the present time, have now appreciated this vitally important aspect of the question and are ready to give the scheme a trial.

gallantly admitted that the senior man should have had points given to him.

Yesterday the grand old warrior, W. H. Reinhardt, of Birkenhead, seventy-four years old, went down to a more youthful of fifty-nine, D. Macleod, the only difference in handicap being 15.

"Our suggestion," said Mr. Reinhardt, meaning himself and the lads rising seventy and onwards, "is that when two veterans play one-sixth should be allowed by the younger for every year's difference in age. Thus, a man of seventy, playing one of seventy-four, would give four-sixths."

SINGLE SHOT MARGIN AT KOWLOON C.C.

LOCAL SIDE DESERVED TO WIN ON LAST HEAD

LUCKY WICK BY BRIERLEY DECIDES AN INTERESTING CONTEST

(By "Sagax")

What has certainly been the best match of the series, was that played between the Shanghai lawn bowls interporters and the combined Kowloon C. C. and Club de Recreio rink on the Kowloon C. C. green yesterday afternoon when the visitors won by 18 shots to 17 on the last head on which they scored a rather lucky single.

Not only was there excitement aplenty in the closeness of the scoring but in the actual play and standard of bowls there were many a thrilling moment in which one player or another brought off some brilliant shot.

It is indeed difficult, if not impossible, to single out any one player as being the outstanding man of the match but I think the majority of the spectators will agree that F. V. Ribeiro, who came into the team at the last moment in the place of F. X. M. da Silva, was playing the best bowls of the match.

In the parlance of the baseball scribbler he was able to "make his wood sit up and talk;" as time and again his bowl would trickle through an almost impossible port to lay the shot to secure an additional count.

However, he was not the only player who was able to bring off some brilliant shots as the others all put in their quota but Ribeiro was just a shade more consistent than any of the others.

HYDE-LAY'S ERRORS

Hyde-Lay was not serving the combined local rink as well as he might have and had it not been for Ribeiro the Hongkong players would have lost by a bigger margin, although the Colony rink deserved to have won yesterday's fixture.

On three occasions Hyde-Lay dislodged a Hongkong shot to allow the Shanghai players to lie. Once he took out two Hongkong woods to leave Shanghai with a count of four when they were already lying two.

On yesterday's form if Alves and Ribeiro had been incorporated into the Interport side on Thursday there might easily have been a different tale to tell, but then that is another story altogether.

Both Alves and Phillips were responsible for some clever drawing, the latter excelling himself on a couple of occasions, more particularly on the ninth head when he went into the ditch off the jack and then, with his next shot, carried the jack into the ditch to lie both his woods, the combined side eventually scoring three.

HIGH STANDARD

Train played some steady bowls as lead for Shanghai while Richards brought off some clever shots at No. 2. Both Brierley and Lopes were also showing good form and were drawing with uncanny accuracy on many occasions. The match was full of excitement as on practically every head the lie was being constantly changed by the bowlers, all of whom saw to it that

INTERPORT BOWLS

SECOND MATCH AT CIVIL SERVICE

The second lawn bowls Interport between Hongkong and Shanghai is to be played on the Civil Service C. C. green this afternoon, commencing at 2.30 p.m.

Shanghai will most probably be represented by the same rink as beat the Colony on Thursday while Hongkong has selected J. V. Ramsay, J. McKelvie, J. Fraser and A. M. Holland.

His Excellency the Officer Administering the Government (the Hon. Mr. N. L. Smith) has indicated his intention of being present.

After the match the Shanghai bowlers will be entertained to a dinner dance at the Craigengower Cricket Club.

they were not being overshadowed to any serious degree by their opposite numbers.

It was indeed a high standard of bowls that was served up and was close throughout with few big scores. Hongkong took a count of four on the first head but Shanghai soon caught up, being level at 8-8 on the eighth head. The scores were again level on the sixteenth head on which Shanghai scored four through Hyde-Lay knocking out two Hongkong woods with a drive when attempting to prevent Shanghai from scoring two.

When the players went to bowl on the final head the scores were 17-17 and Richards all but won the match with a wood that rested on the jack. It was Ribeiro, however, who dislodged the shot and lay for Hongkong. Brierley, with two wicks, took out the Hongkong wood for the shot which eventually gave Shanghai the narrowest victory.

INTERPORT CRICKET
TRIAL HELD

PLAYERS OF PROVED ABILITY TAKE PRINCIPAL HONOURS

NO NEW TALENT DISCOVERED DURING LAST THURSDAY'S MATCH

(By R. Abbit)

The first Interport Trial was played on Thursday in beautiful, if rather hot, weather, on a wicket just the slightest bit on the soft side, which would take a little spin.

In spite of the festive occasion at the Bank, a start was made about a quarter past one. Dunkley's side batted and Teddy Fincher and Richardson opened to Acee Bowker, from the Yard end, and Garthwaite. The latter definitely needs the new ball, and to a less extent perhaps Bowker does, but the contrast is not nearly so good as that which the batters of Garthwaite and the leg breakers of Ricketts would make.

IF GOSSIP WE MUST

And that reminds me of the sartorial interest that must not be omitted from the account of these trials. How does the style go? We also noticed a tall player tastefully attired in white trousers and shirt with the dinkiest thing in ivory coloured caps of a cheddar texture on his head. It is said that a fair visitor from the U.S.A. on the previous Saturday halvedly ejaculated, "How nice! You have an American blue-jacket playing for you!" The mistake was pardonable but closer inspection has shown that the somerol style so aptly described thirty years ago as a "boulder-cap." We trust these remarks do not pain the owner—indeed he seemed to hear up pretty well when we read them to him in the—er—library—but though all things may be good, yet, as St. Paul said, some are not expedient. This cap is not.

STUBBORN CRICKET

The start was slow as good bowling was met by steady defence and after half an hour's play Richardson was finely caught by Perse at second slip off Bowker. There was a good deal of surprise when it was found he had not broken his duck! Acee Pearce came in but went almost immediately l.b.w. to Garthwaite's inswinging for a single. (10-2-1).

Ernie then joined Teddy and the brothers seemed to be settling down very nicely. They brought on Ballard and Burnett, neither of whom was very impressive, as the former was on the slow side (the wicket was too slow for him to make pace off the pitch and without this he is only mediocre), while the latter, while putting down some very fine balls at times, bowled far too many loose ones. Both got a wicket, however, as Ballard, at 67, brought off a fine c & b, to send Teddy Fincher back for a good forty runs, while three runs later E. L. Gosano hung his bat up to dry against one of Burnett's a shade on the leg side, and, as the ball "popped" up, he put it up and ducked to take a good catch at full length. (60-4-3).

A LOVELY KNOCK

Madar came in to play new cricket from the start. At 71 he lost

Ernie Fincher, who was yorked by Ricketts, and at 82 McIntosh, who tried to hit Bowker but got the ball on the spine of the bat and was easily taken at mid-off, (82-6-2) after 95 minutes play. Dunkley, however, who is a very much better defensive batsman than most people think, kept his end up with apparent ease and after he had latted fifty minutes Madar completed his half-century, having played beautiful shots all through. His wrist-work was a pleasure to watch. I have seen Madar play many good innings but he has been apt to be slow, or scratchy—or both—for some time. On this occasion he showed a decision in his stroke play from the start, such as he has never done before to my knowledge. It is to be trusted that he can hold this form. His square cuts were particularly crisp. He carried his bat for 75 runs. Dunkley was l.b.w. to Ricketts after batting forty invulnerable minutes though he only made ten runs. Sixty-four runs were put on in the stand. Minu hit a big six over the scoring board—which, as the wicket was pitched well on the Hongkong Club side of the ground, was a pretty shrewd blow, and Pearce lifted a few but he was hitting far too soon with a cross bat and only his amazing eye enabled him to connect at all. The innings was closed at 107 runs for 9 wickets.

HARD HITTING

Bonavia and Ramsay started against Pearce and Minu and from the start the latter was going faster. I was sorry to see that Minu, especially if hit, tended to try and bowl too fast with the invariable long hop to leg resulting. It is a ball he has got to reduce to a minimum if he is going to get into the side, and his fielding and hitting make him a most useful member of an eleven provided he does not give too many runs away by this bad ball. After 28 runs had been scored in twenty minutes Bonavia was given l.b.w. to a ball from Minu which hit him high on the thigh. After this Ramsay came out and played some very nice shots, including a few big drives. One of these—from Minu—was magnificently caught by Richardson in front of the pavilion. A bright knock for thirty-four runs.

A QUICK WICKET

With Perse and Ride in, the rate of scoring diminished. Most of the bowlers were new to the former and Ride did not seem at all comfortable, though he, and Gosano, made a couple of nice late cuts. Soon, however, Pearce—on a second time—bowled Ride's off stump after beating him by sheer pace several times. (49-3-1).

DELAY IN CHANGE OF BOWLING
Garthwaite came in and cut his first ball crisply for three and then played a good maiden from Minu who had eased off his pace and, as always, bowled the very much better for it. About this time a spot seemed to be developing at the Gas Works end but it was too short to be really dangerous. It was a little difficult to understand why after sixty went up Minu continued to bowl, seeing that it was a trial game. However, with 70 up Goodwin relieved Pearce at the Yard End and had Garthwaite very l.b.w. to his second ball (70-4-1). McIntosh then relieved Minu but a full toss to leg went for four and a long hop to square for a similar number. Only a brilliant bit of fielding by Pearce saved the next ball from a similar fate.

HAYWARD OUT

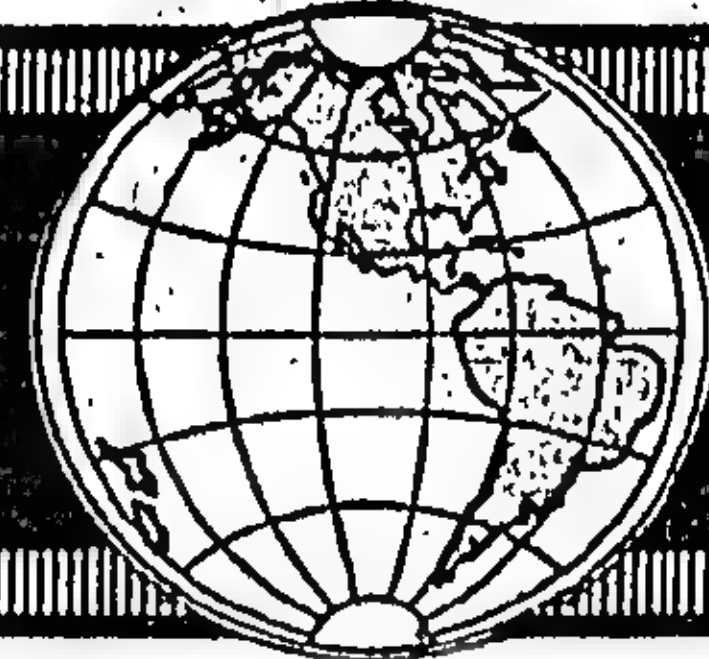

In Goodwin's second over he hit Hayward's middle stump with a perfect length off break. The batsman had seemed perfectly at home but he played forward outside the break. The next ball slipped and Mackay let a full toss bounce on his horizontal and heavenward facing bat and the ball gracefully bounced therefrom over the head of the slips for four! A novel shot! McIntosh was on for the first time in the match. Mackay was not very happy but very short and well, and Gosano came in for the first time in the match. Mackay got well going. Goodwin obviously tired in his fourth over and a couple of shocking things went skipping to the leg boundary, though the rest of the over was good enough. Shortly after Perse completed an excellent fifty. I did not see him dropped and he played with a straight bat and watched the ball. From the description of his batting I had from a well known gunner cricketer (not now in the Colony) I had expected a batsman of a much more slashing and less sound type, and there is no doubt he is, so far the greatest acquisition this season. His dismissal was spectacular as he hooked an off long hop of Gosano's terrifically hard just in front of square leg and E. F. Fincher took a red hot catch at the second attempt. For many worse shots have got a safe four! (134-6-55). At 134 and 55 at this time. Just after this Madar relieved Gosano who was evidently short of practice. Ballard clumped Pearce for two fours and a single in one over and Mackay was stumped in having an almighty yaho. (166-7-17). Then came a glorious over where Ricketts hit Minu for two of the highest smacks I have seen for a long time. One fell just inside the rails at long on, and the other bounced just on the back of the score box roof. It was a tremendous hit—one of the biggest I have ever seen on the ground. That made the game a tie and next over a run was scored to win. The light had lasted quite well up to six o'clock.

REFLECTIONS

The thing that struck me most of all was the lack of new talent. The only outstanding performance by anyone who had not represented the Colony at some time or other before was the innings of Captain Perse. Beyond that only A. H. Madar and E. C. Fincher were impressive with the bat, while Dunkley's defence and Ricketts' hitting were very useful. In bowling Perse was in my opinion faster than Bowker but hardly so accurate. I do not present one of the school who say that both cannot play in the same team. Bowker's figures were 12-3-17-2 and Perse's 9-1-21-1. Goodwin in his first three overs showed a great deal of his old form, but I doubt if he will last for a long spell of bowling and should not be used frequently, but for short spells only. Burnett will have to get his length more accurate before he can come into the picture seriously. So will Minu—though I doubt if the wicket suited him. I hope to publish an account of today's trial on Monday, or on Tuesday if crowded out.

NOTES FROM THE THEATRES

Captain Norman Walker, director of the new film "Lilies of the Field", which comes to the King's Theatre on Wednesday, once underwent the unusual experience of having his film unit taken over by the Army while on location. That was during the filming of his great silent success, "Tommy Atkins", in Egypt. Lord Lloyd had just signed an order forbidding the landing of arms and ammunition in the country when Captain Walker's film unit arrived complete with rifles of an ancient pattern, and round upon round of black cartridges for their War epic. The result was a very delicate situation which seemed likely to cause the abandonment of the film. Then a novel way out was discovered, the unit should be taken over by the Army, and its stores issued in accordance with strict service regulations. Imagine what followed! The Army stores wagon driving up with the costumes and equipment for the day's filming; make-up issued by the Quartermaster like rations of bully-beef; and everything returned and checked in the evening. This arrangement, nevertheless, worked admirably both for the authorities and the film company, who had the troublesome business of stores administration taken out of their hands, and at no cost to themselves. "Tommy Atkins", made in 1928, was Captain Walker's first film, and a very striking debut it proved. If anyone was capable of making a success of this saga of a British soldier it was he. A private in the 1st North Lancashire Regiment himself, he eventually rose to the rank of captain, after seeing active service in France, East Africa, and Ireland. Since this auspicious start, Captain Walker has scored many successes including that rollicking comedy "The Middle Watch" and "Loose Ends" which brought Owen Nares and Edna Best back to the screen and discovered Adrienne Allen.

"The Crusades"
In all history no spectacle like this! Cast of 1,000! Thirty kings leading one army warring against one king leading thirty armies. The horrors of the Slave Wars! Men burned alive at the stake! The splendours of the court of Saladin! The finding of the True Cross! Giant War Catapults! War Galleys under full sail! Majestic entertainment that baffles description! Cecil B. DeMille, master showman in creating this, his greatest picture, gives to the world super-luxe entertainment. "The Crusades" is now drawing and delighting crowded houses at the Queen's Theatre. Shrewdly, DeMille has kept his moral values in the realm of pure faith. It might be abstract faith battling for right so universal is its impact. Unquestionably DeMille has created one of the biggest pictures, creating too, a monument to himself in the entertainment world.

"Little Colonel"
Three supreme figures of screen, stage vaudeville are brought together in "The Little Colonel" which comes to the Oriental Theatre to-morrow, Monday, Tuesday. They are Shirley Temple, the foremost child-actress, can be counted among the miracles of movie history. Co-starring with Shirley is Lionel Barrymore, easily the screen's leading character actor, one whose presence lends distinction to any role. Bill Robinson of course has a niche for himself as the originator of the inimitable stair dance, which is the last word in tap dancing. The stairs on which he used to dance on the stage were inconsequential beside the two elaborate flights of fifteen and ten steps, on which he dances alone, and with Shirley. Others in the cast of this De Sylva production are Evelyn Venable, John Lodge, and Sidney Blackmer. Part of the picture is filmed in glowing Technicolor.

HOW ONE MAN
LOST 19 lbs. FAT

And Now Feels Absolutely Fit

A fat man is commonly supposed to be good-humoured, easy-going. But there is many a fat man who finds the going far from easy. The following letter describes one typical instance:—
"I began to put on weight this year, and developed stoutness in the stomach which was very ugly. I took Kruschen Salts each morning for a month, and reduced my weight 19 lbs. So I kept on, and have now reduced 39 lbs. altogether. Apart from that, it has also relieved me of headaches, and I feel absolutely fit each morning ready for a hard day's work."—H. M.

Taken every morning, Kruschen effects a perfectly natural clearance of undigested food substances, and all excessive watery waste matter. Unless this wastage is regularly expelled Nature will eventually store it up out of the way in the form of ugly fat. Once Kruschen gets into the blood you will soon see that double chin begin to go, and that too prominent abdomen begin to disappear.

"You are many Kings, with one army. I am one King, with many armies. Go, in peace! Or stay and see your Christian women sold as slaves, your armoured Knights crushed, your gospels cast into flames, your Holy Men burned alive at the stake!"

"Paris in Spring"
All her life Mary Ellis has wanted to become a famous actress with a good voice. But a benign fate has always thwarted her. Mary Ellis must continue to credit her great triumphs to her voice. Miss Ellis, who is currently starring in Paramount's "Paris in Spring", now at the Star Theatre, even succeeded for a time in subordinating her voice. While in London, she appeared in plays which excluded all singing, but now in her return to the American screen, she reverts to her role as a singing actress. Miss Ellis' girlhood debut at the Metropolitan Opera, her triumph in the title role of "Rose Marie" and her subsequent success in London and New York productions have established her for all time as a singer. Yet, by her own confession, she entered the Metropolitan because she wanted to act despite the disapproval of her parents, and hoped in that way to gradually establish her point. While at the Metropolitan, and still in her teens, Miss Ellis sang with Caruso, Scotti and other great operatic stars. David Belasco "discovered" Miss Ellis for the legitimate stage and gave her her first opportunity to display her acting. In London, she starred in "Strange Interlude", "Double Harness", "Music in the Air" and others. Tullio Carminati, Ida Lupino and Lynne Overman support Miss Ellis in "Paris in Spring". Directed by Lewis Milestone, the picture presents a group of new tunes by Gordon and Revel, Hollywood musical wizards.

"She" An ancient legend handed down from father to son for 500 years, serves as the beginning of spectacular, hazardous and strange events in RKO Radio's "She" now showing at the King's Theatre. According to the legend, an ancestor of Leo Vincoy, had, five centuries before, discovered in the land of Muscovy a fountain of life-giving fire, and who ever bathed therein would have youth projected endlessly. His wife, after enduring untold torments and hardships, managed to reach civilization and tell of the flame and of a cruel, beautiful woman who ruled over a strange tropical kingdom surrounded by high glacial mountains. She brought with her an amulet of gold upon which was carved a picture of a woman bathing in a flame. The amulet, with the legend, had passed down to Leo Vincoy. Believing that the gold trinket would lead him to the place of life-giving fire, he set out upon the adventurous expedition. How he found the kingdom of Kor and its awesome, beautiful queen, and how he saw the life-giving fire, and stood upon the threshold to immortality is excitingly unfolded in the story of "She." Helen Gahagan, appears as queen "She". Randolph Scott plays the young explorer. Helon Mack, Nigel Bruce, Gustav von Seyffertitz, Lumsden Hare, and Noble Johnson play other important parts.

"Car 99" Fred MacMurray, handsome Paramount player, has the leading role as an adventurous, two-fisted fighter in "Car 99", next change at the Queen's Theatre. This story of the famous Michigan State Police features MacMurray, Sir Guy Standing, Ann Sheridan, William Fraxley, Dean Jagger and Marina Schuber. "Car 99" is based on true incidents in the experience of this great criminal hunting force. MacMurray portrays a young rookie encouraged by his sweetheart to join the state police. He emerges from the rigorous training to prove himself a hero early in his career. But in a clash with the State's most dangerous bandits, he loses his prisoners through carelessness and is broken as a result. Even after this setback, he persists in his loyalty to the force. Finally, in a daring coup, bank bandits cripple the police radio station and proceed to escape from the state. Their plan just fails of success through the bravery and quick-thinking of MacMurray, who wins back his post and his girl through the arrest.

SERIAL STORY

DONNA of the BIG TOP

by BEULAH POYNTER

CHAPTER I

Donna opened sleep-heavy brown eyes. Madeline was washing her face in the tiny bathroom adjoining their berth. It was the sound of water splashing that had awakened the older girl.

"What's the idea of washing at this hour?" Donna asked between wide yawns.

Madeline shook out the length of silk stockings and hung it on a piece of twine stretched between the door knob and the brass faucet before answering. "Couldn't sleep, so I thought I might as well do it and not wait until after the parade. They'll dry."

Donna looked at her wrist watch. "Only 5 o'clock!" She raised herself on one rounded elbow and stared out the window. "We're due at 6, but from that stretch of timber it doesn't look as though there was a town within a thousand miles. Pretty country, though."

"Yeah," laconically. "It's pretty enough."

Donna swept a wavy strand of bronze coloured hair from her eyes and looked at the other girl. "You come from some place in this neck of the woods, don't you?"

Madeline nodded. "Why remind me? I get the jitters every time I think of Saturday. The old man lives just five miles from Lebanon."

"Your grandfather?"

"Yes." Madeline dried her hands and arms and came into the room. "I'm sorry now I ever let him know I'm with the circus. His conscience might induce him to tell Renfro we aren't sisters and then where would the net be?"

Donna laughed. "I guess you could argue him out of that. Any way we're strong enough with Renfro now so that he'd forgive a little deception."

Madeline shook her head, covered with bronze curls similar to Donna's. "Not Renfro. Didn't he let out the Flying Kangaroo because Myrtle wasn't related to Van? No single girls with the show and he means it."

"Surely if your grandfather realized your job depends on Renfro, believing we're sisters he wouldn't say anything."

Madeline shrugged. "Oh, yes he would. He'd move heaven and earth to get me back on the farm. According to him a circus is a greivous pole to hell and I'm sorry I ever wrote home at all. When I made the break I should have widened it."

Donna's candid dark eyes studied the other girl's troubled face. It was a strong likeness she saw. Short chiselled nose, full red lips, straight level brows over brown eyes that were rimmed with thick black lashes. "If I had a grandfather who offered me a good home I'd consider myself lucky. When you're in a business as long as I have—Mad, you'll be glad you didn't cut every tie."

"You've never lived on a farm," Madeline protested. "You don't know what it's like in the winter when you're snowed in and don't see a soul for weeks, when you have to live on canned goods and—"

"You may think you hate the sawdust and the 'big top,' but you don't!"

"I hate everything about it," Donna said. "The parades with the jokers, starting at me, the mud existence, always moving and living in trucks. The reel of the animals. I'd like to be married, Mad, with children growing up around me. I'd like to wash dishes and raise flowers and vegetables and cook for my man and—"

"So you take care of himself," Madeline interrupted with a sharp laugh. "Just try it a while and see how soon you miss the applause and the thrill of risking your life and the smell of the sawdust. I wouldn't give up one year of circus life for 50 on a farm."

Donna's only reply was "Shush!" Madeline let her lordship hear you. She nodded towards the opposite wall. Donna had heard the same tirade many times, and reptition had not increased her interest in Madeline's reasons for running away from home five years before.

Madeline lowered her voice. "If you want a husband and children why don't you marry him?"

"Con? I wouldn't for several reasons. First, because I'm not in love with him; second, because it would mean the circus for the rest of my life; and third, because I might be a widow before I'd grown accustomed to being a wife."

"Con can take care of himself," Madeline said, but her eyes darkened. "The cats will get him as sure as you're alive. They always do some day. Every trainer I've ever known—"

Donna paused abruptly and looked out the window again. "My father was the best in the business," she went on. "but I'll never forget that day! Some times even now I can hear Mother's shriek. Why shouldn't I hate this life? I saw father mangled to death and I saw my mother fall from the bars, to lie for weeks as a hopeless cripple, and then finally give up the struggle because life was too bitter to keep on. Oh, there's glamour, I'll admit! The blare of the trumpets, the bright lights, the gay costumes. Yes, they get a girl like you. But you've never known the other side, and I have. I wouldn't marry Con. David for all the gold in the world."

Madeline placed a sympathetic arm about the other's shoulders. "I wish," she said softly, "I was sure you didn't love Con."

"I think you do."

"No. He's sweet and I like him—but that's all. Why?"

Madeline evaded. "No reason. Do you want some coffee?"

"I could do with a cup."

Over a tiny stove Madeline boiled coffee. She produced a bag ofoughnuts from a locked closet. Sipping the warm stimulant, the girls watched the panorama through the window. Donna's eyes, clouded with bitter memories, did not take in the beauties of the countryside—the apple orchards in bloom, a flock of lambs gambolling over the undulating plains and a narrow river skirted by overhanging oaks and sycamores.

Farm houses sprang into view; low, rambling, unpainted buildings with great red barns and silos in the distance. Cows grazed peacefully near the railroad embankment without raising eyes to the black monster belching smoke and soot. Small boys perched on rail fences shouted their glee at the bright lettering on the cars announcing "Renfro's Circus."

Madeline said, "I never see that without a thrill!" She pointed to a lurid poster showing two girls flying through the air with a swinging trapeze below them. Underneath were the words, "The Gabriel Sisters, Aerial Gymnasts."

Donna was staring at another poster. "And I never see that," she said, "without shuddering." The poster she was looking at depicted a man in white riding breeches and a red coat, standing in a cage of wild animals. The caption read, "Con David, King of the Beasts."

Suddenly Donna turned. She said, "Madeline, you're in love with him!" The other girl drew a sharp, audible breath. "Why do you say that?" she asked.

"I know it! I've watched you when he was in the arena. I'm out of the running, kid. Con's a fine boy all right—clean as a whistle—but not for me. Maybe not for you either, but let me give you a tip: you'll never win him by flirting with a canvassman, not even Trafford."

"You've been listening to gossip," Madeline said indignantly.

"You're a sweet child, but you've a lot to learn," Donna went on. "You ought to know that performers don't mix with props. It's dangerous and it just isn't done."

As the train wheels ceased revolving the Pullman came to life. Steps were heard in the corridor and the mumble of voices. There was no delay now even for star performers. All must be dressed and ready for the parade at 11 o'clock.

Donna emerged from the bathroom, donned her dress and opened the door into the corridor to call a cheery "Good morning" to those who passed. The door of the stateroom adjoining also opened, and Con David's sleek black head appeared. "Hello," he greeted her. "How's the town?"

"Don't ask me. I've seen nothing but a water tower and a red brick depot. Are you going to breakfast?"

"In a jiffy."

Con David stepped into the aisle. He was a slender, compact man, not yet 30, with almond-shaped black eyes and a swarthy skin that indicated Latin ancestry. Very white teeth flashed between vivid red lips as he linked his arm through Donna's. "Don't," she said sharply, drawing away. Then she pulled over her shoulder. "Coming, Mad?"

"Can't you stir a step without her?" he asked.

"Can't," but I don't want to."

Already many performers were seated at the long, white-covered tables outside breakfast. Luke Renfro, owner of the circus, and his wife, Mattie, who was billed as "La Belle Matilde, Supreme Equestrienne of the World," sat at a smaller table with the star clown, a saturnine, middle-aged man who answered to the name of De Lucca.

SUCCESSES

satisfaction where it is regarded as the first fruits of the Italian policy to win over sections of the population to the Italian side. As the Italian advance proceeds the stream of deserters is expected to swell.

Simultaneously with the military operations, political officers have begun to try to persuade the Ethiopians of the advantages of Italian rule.

CONSOLIDATING LINES

News from Ethiopia indicates that the Italian troops are consolidating their lines of communication on the Northern Front, where another advance will not be made for a fortnight. The offensive appears stationary on the Somali front, where the Italians are on the defensive.

There is no news whatever from the Southern Eritrean front, where an Italian column has occupied Mount Moussa and is proceeding in the direction of Dire Dawa and the Addis Ababa railway.—Reuter.

FEAR OF BOMBING

Addis Ababa, Oct. 11.
The Ethiopian capital is gripped with fear of air bombings as the time draws near for the departure of Count Vinti, the Italian Ambassador, and his staff.

Foreigners, fearing that the Italians will indiscriminately bomb the city, are displaying flags in positions that will catch the eye of visiting airmen.

Yesterday's train from Djibouti brought few passengers, but instead brought a prized consignment of Japanese medicines. These, however, are found to be useless, because the labels are printed in Japanese characters. Two Japanese journalists are now hard at work translating the printed instructions.—United Press.

London, Oct. 11.

SILVER AND COPPER

PRODUCTION IN AMERICA

Washington, Oct. 11.
The increased activity in the copper market only influences to a minor extent the total United States silver production, despite the widespread production of silver as a by-product of copper, according to the Bureau of Mines.

The Bureau discloses that silver is produced simultaneously with copper in almost all the mining areas in America, but draws attention to the average silver yield per pound of copper during the last quarter of a century, which never exceeded .016 of an ounce and often averaged as low as .008 or .009 of an ounce.

The average value of silver was one-quarter to one-fifth cent per pound of copper.

These figures apply to all copper ores mined in the U.S.—United Press.

ALEXANDRIA

DIGNITARIES SEE MILITARY SHOW

Alexandria, Oct. 11.
Thousands of British soldiers and sailors, together with Egyptian soldiers, with bands playing, participated in an imposing parade through the streets here to-day. The largest crowd ever seen in Alexandria witnessed the spectacle.

Sir Miles Lampson, British High Commissioner, and the Premier, Tewfik Pasha Nassim, were among the spectators.—Reuter Special.

SHANGHAI MURDERESS

MRS. HADLEY SENT TO BRITISH PRISON

London, Oct. 11.
Mrs. Hadley, who was sentenced to death by the British Court in Shanghai on October 18, 1933, for the murder of Captain Walter Clifford Young, and subsequently reprieved, arrived at Tilbury yesterday by the P. and O. Naldora.

She was met by a party of police and a wardress from Holloway Gaol, and taken to Holloway Gaol, where she will serve the rest of her life sentence.—Reuter.

The case created a great sensation at the time. Katherine Hadley being a 36-year-old widow of Russian extraction but British nationality.

She had been the mistress of Young, a man of 54 who, it was alleged, had brutally ill-treated her, and she finally stabbed him.

CAUTION URGED

London, Oct. 11.
About forty Conservative M.P.s and Peers were present at a private meeting at the Constitutional Club which unanimously passed a resolution appealing to the Government not to advocate or be a party to any sanctions "which are in any way likely to lead to war." Mr. L. M. S. Amery, former Cabinet Minister, presided.—British Wireless.

LINER'S LAST VOYAGE

London, Oct. 11.
The 46,439-ton White Star liner Olympic left Southampton this evening on her last voyage to the shipbreaking yard at Yarrow. Ships in harbour, sounded their sirens in salute as she passed. The Olympic was the large British-built vessel afloat before the launch of the Queen Mary.—British Wireless.

LOOKS FOR BIG PROFIT IN SILVER

Washington Post, which is coincident with his departure from the Government service.

He asserts: "To open our mints to the free coinage of foreign silver at 65¢ cents per ounce, as we are at present doing, is simply carrying one step further the dollar depreciating measures which failed to restore prosperity, and the full effects of which have yet to be felt."

He said the only defence of the Government silver purchases is that they mildly tended to counteract the potential effects of the large gold inflow by keeping out some gold. However he said this was contrary to the intention of the Silver Act and also that most of the silver comes from China and Hongkong, where the loss causes a painful deflation. Only the smallest amounts came from the gold countries, he said.

It is understood Mr. Bratter's personal views represent those widely held in the Government but that the Treasury continues its purchases largely because of political pressure.—United Press.

OFF TO SALT LAKE

Washington, Oct. 11.
Mr. Grosvenor Jones, chief of the Department of Commerce Financial Section, left for Salt Lake City to attend Senator Pittman's silver conference, where he will interpret documents and various departmental studies prepared for the investigators.—United Press.

EXPANSION OF R.A.F.

RAPID PROGRESS REPORTED

London, Oct. 11.
Excellent progress is being made with the programme of expansion of the Royal Air Force announced last May.

Already sites have been definitely chosen for twenty out of the thirty-two new stations required, and measures are in train to make them ready for service by March 1937, when the programme is due to be completed.

The sites of three out of six new armament training camps have been selected, and five additional flying training schools have been formed. The enrolment of pilots and recruiting generally is regarded as satisfactory.

Manufacturers are making a big effort to execute contracts for new machines, and in some cases arrangements have been made for other firms to build under licence, special types, the manufacturers of which cannot immediately expand their plant sufficiently to enable them to provide the required output themselves.—British Wireless.

NO FORM OF SANCTIONS

BRITAIN EXPLAINS RADIO CASE

London, Oct. 11.
Italian annoyance at the withholding of facilities to broadcast a talk by Baron Aloisi with an American journalist, through an American company in London, is authoritatively commented on here, it being pointed out that the decision cannot be regarded as a sanction.

The request for the broadcast was made at too short notice to enable arrangements to be made in the ordinary way, and the British Government decided not to facilitate it. Future cases will be considered on their merits.

It is stated that the British Government will not impose sanctions except at the instigation of the Co-ordinating Committee at Geneva, no sort of unilateral action being contemplated.—Reuter Special.
